

AIM for SEVA

Educating Rural India

PROPOSED SCHOOL
PROJECT REPORT
AND CHATRALAYAM
UPDATE REPORT

FROM CHATRALAYAM TO VIDYALAYA

THE NEED

With over two decades of experience in educational delivery in rural India, AIM for Seva is now looking to create greater impact on ground through the Vidyalaya model. Spread over three to four acres, the boarding facilities in these educational institutions will be able to absorb 100 students each in the boys and girls hostel.

A K-12 school project is also expected to be a booster shot for the local economy. The first and most direct impact would be greater employment opportunities in the region for teaching and non-teaching staff, with most of them coming in from vicinity of the proposed residential school premises.

For instance, AIM for Seva's associate partner, Swami Dayananda Educational Trust's (SDET) educational outreach initiatives in Manjakkudi (our Founder, Pujya Swami Dayananda Saraswati's Janmabhoomi) has positively impacted the lives of 306 families in the region.
